Proposals

for the establishment of settled international cooperation

The world's population relies on the success of international trade, financial programs, and governments, expecting to reap the benefits of the global world. Existing constantly, these mechanisms require proper management, which is achieved by active cooperation of all participants. Governments should create and maintain effective tools for cooperation, and businesses should bring better solutions to the public. Many gaps in the past affect everyone's abilities, often due to exhausting or irrelevant decisions that need to be reviewed. It is important to focus on the transparent law-making process, review laws and create safe and favorable legal frameworks. Business and manufacturing will succeed by cooperating with each other, governmental and non-governmental organizations applying the best practices of their activities. The HCC's position is for governments to make laws more unified and understandable, promote collaboration through global platforms bringing better social protection to the population.

for resettlement to neighboring lands

In construction, you can often see buildings described as serving 50 years or more, and although they can remain strong for a long time, their maintenance and renovation is a complex process. Due to the constant population growth due to advances in birth and life expectancy, cities should be filled with an adequate amount of new real estate, but often residential real estate can be for several generations, reducing the need for new construction, while generating numerous social challenges such as security, independence and dignity.

A systematic approach to the construction of new housing and infrastructure is required, signaling the need to create new urban cells. Our solutions in HCC will offer luxury real estate with a high level of accessibility, conditions for cooperation and well-being.

How is the universality of the house achieved?

The layout of the living space, which totals 753.5 square pounds, is completed in a one-story building, has mandatory separate rooms for sleeping, hygiene, cooking and a technical-storage room, the house is equipped with safe tools for partially autonomous living. The versatility of the house is achieved through the provided universal room that can have an arbitrary purpose, including for the office, dining room, children's, sports space, but not limited to this.

In relation to what is the general availability of the solution determined?

In addition to the fact that most of the materials used are common in the sediments of the layers of the planet Earth, they are often very suitable for returning to their original composition by transforming them, which also means that they can be requested in previously manufactured and abandoned products. The design features developed not only support the replacement of some materials with others, they are easy to perform and assemble, so more people can undergo rapid training and certify their professional employment for their construction.

How is the order financed?

The cost for residents of the United States of America is still determined, for residents of Europe, the expected cost of construction and complete equipment in the current economic conditions is in the range of 172,000 euros. The regulatory restrictions of each individual region directly and significantly affect the construction period, in the construction period modeled in accordance with natural conditions, the construction period is expected to be up to 7-14 days.

Is the health of the residents supported?

First of all, the materials required for manufacturing and production processes must meet environmental expectations, so finished products must be either neutral or useful; Industrial facilities where raw materials and products are manufactured must comply with the best marks of negative impact on ecosystems and the atmosphere and be accountable.

Separately, the HVAC residential solution will support residents with fresh air, and glass systems will pass a safe amount of solar radiation.

Another health effect, such as mental well-being, is still under investigation.

Why are trading practices designed in the best way?

Equipped according to industry standards, the market offers storage and sale of products of the expected appearance and quality, offering consumers safe and fast purchases, a full range of products milk, meat, eggs, vegetables, bread, groceries, drinks, sweets, products for babies, hygiene and health.

By implementing a constantly available range of everyday goods, the market offers delivery to the door of the assortment of the world warehouse, the same warehouse, which replenishes the assortment of the market, offering valuable opportunities for marketing, manufacturers and consumers.

How does this business work for employment?

The business opens up simple professions in warehouses of the world assortment, VALLEY markets, and vehicles.

And although the market avoids cash registers due to implemented machine turnstiles, and the consequences of employment are still being studied, we expect to see an appropriate amount of professional employment through the design of highly efficient teams.

What social consequences can I expect?

The burdensome work of the same type of work at the checkout area is canceled, we expect our employees and visitors to be in pleasant and safe conditions.
